MARKET COMMENTARY

The Australian equity market made modest progress in October, with the S &P/ASX 300 Accumulation Index returning 1.1% in a choppy month shaped by AGM trading updates, guidance revisions and quarterly production reports from miners against a backdrop of falling metals prices. Takeover activity was also a feature, including proposals for Cleanaway and Challenger, while the scrapping of Firmus's planned IPO weighed on data centre and AI infrastructure-linked names. Utilities (+9.3%) led sector gains, followed by Financials (+6.9%), as the major banks rebounded despite housing market weakness, supported by rotation out of Resources. Health Care (+5. 6%) and Consumer Discretionary (+3.6%) also outperformed. Materials (–8.1%) was the clear laggard, entering bear market territory more than 20% below the August peak. Lithium stocks were among the weakest, with Vulcan Energy, Liontown, Pilbara Minerals, Elevra and IGO each falling more than 20%.

PORTFOLIO COMMENTARY

The portfolio's largest overweight positions include Washington H Soul Pattinson, Ramsay Health Care and EVT Limited. Conversely, the portfolio 's largest relative underweight positions include Commonwealth Bank, Macquarie Group, and Telstra (not held).

The Lottery Corporation (TLC) rose 11.3% in October, driven by a strong run of jackpots during the month, which should support 2QFY27 earnings. Beyond the near-term jackpot cycle, we see TLC as a defensive, highly cash-generative business. Lottery tickets are a low-cost purchase for most consumers, which supports relatively stable long-term demand. The business also requires minimal working capital, so a high proportion of earnings converts to cash. A structural shift in ticket sales from retail outlets (newsagents) to online channels provides an additional earnings lever. When TLC sells a ticket through its own online channels, it pays no retail commission and retains the full margin. On our estimates, the EBITDA margin on an online ticket is close to double that of a ticket sold in store. With digital channels accounting for ~47% of lotteries turnover by value, there remains a long runway for margin expansion. We believe these digital margin benefits provide a clear path to mid-single-digit revenue growth and high-single-digit earnings growth.

Last month, we wrote that the correction in Pinnacle Investment Management Group's (PNI) share price following the Metrics issue in September had more than fully priced in Metrics' contribution to PNI's NPAT. We therefore took the opportunity to add to our position at an average price of $13.80. Fast forward and PNI returned 16.5% in October as the market reassessed how material any adverse effects from the Metrics issue were likely to be. We also wrote last month that the focus on Metrics was overshadowing strong progress elsewhere in the business. PNI's 1QFY27 update on 30 October was largely in line with expectations and contained no major negative news on Metrics. Group net inflows of $5.9bn for the quarter put PNI close to halfway to consensus expectations of $12.6bn for 1HFY27. Flows were also broad-based, with six affiliates each contributing more than $500m. FUM rose by around $1.3bn in Plato's Global Alpha strategy and $1.6bn at Life Cycle over the quarter, implying solid net flows. This breadth supports our view that PNI's strongest affiliates can more than offset those going through periods of weaker performance, which should underpin healthy EPS growth.

Capricorn Metals (CMM) fell 11.95% in October as the gold price slid lower. The stock has since rebounded sharply. The Democratic sweep of Congress in the US midterm elections sent US 10-year Treasury yields and the US dollar lower, which lifted gold back above US $4,000/oz. CMM rose more than 14% in the first full trading session after the congressional result was known. CMM remains our preferred gold name. It is one of the highest-margin gold producers in WA and has a significant growth runway. Under its "Range 500" ambition, CMM aims to lift annual production from 124koz in FY26 to 500koz within five years. This growth is planned in three steps: expanding its operating Karlawinda mine, building a new mine at Mt Gibson (MGGP Stage 1) and potentially adding a second processing hub at the Golden Range Project (MGGP Stage 2). CMM's 1QFY27 update, released late in October, showed progress across all three. At Karlawinda, commissioning of the expansion was completed in September. At Mt Gibson, state approvals are progressing and the company is advancing pre-development activities and procurement. CMM has also commenced studies into MGGP Stage 2, with preliminary results expected late in 2QFY27.

Navigator Global Investments (NGI) modestly detracted after declining 14.3% in October. This followed gains of more than 10% in the final two trading sessions of September, after the company announced the sale of its interest in Invictus Capital Partners. NGI will receive net upfront proceeds of US$40–43m, plus a potential earn-out of up to ~US$32m in CY30. It will also retain its carried interest and fund interests in Invictus. Management expects the deal will not significantly reduce Invictus distributions in FY27 and that material profit distributions will continue until 2031. NGI also provided a solid 1Q27 AUM update during the month. Group ownership-adjusted AUM rose 9% over the quarter to US$36.6bn, driven by the Stable acquisition. Excluding Stable, the organic AUM growth was 3% for the quarter. We like NGI as the only ASX-listed company offering pure exposure to alternatives, an asset class that is generating attractive alpha and attracting flows. The stock also trades on an attractive P /E multiple. Furthermore, the sale proceeds add to NGI's balance sheet capacity to fund M&A that grows its fee-generating base, providing a pathway to significant earnings uplift in the years ahead.

OUTLOOK

Investors continue to weigh several local and global pressure points. The RBA lifted the cash rate 25bps to 4.85% on 3 November – its fifth hike this year and an 18-year high – but Governor Bullock removed the explicit tightening bias, signalling a wait-and-see pause that many economists read as the peak. Even so, trimmed mean inflation is now forecast to hold at 3.6% through December 2026, with growth of just 1.6% and unemployment forecast to reach 5.1%, and the AUD has weakened as markets weigh the risk of a policy error. Offshore, the ASX has been caught in the brutal global tech and AI selloff following the US midterms, while falling Chinese corporate earnings pose a risk to resource demand. Domestically, a record A $1.4 trillion project pipeline led by data centres is inflationary but structural, household spending remains stickier than expected and bank earnings hinge on cost discipline, with ANZ's result on 9 November the near-term test.
